NPR runs week-long series on fracking. All this week, National Public Radio has been airing a daily series on fracking called "The Fracking Boom: Missing Answers." The series looks at fracking from a national perspective with a heavy focus on residents living near fracking sites, who have blamed health and water problems on drilling activities. Along with the national series, WHYY in Philadelphia ran a segment Monday on its "Radio Times" show called "Natural fracking: an update" that featured interviews with reporters Susan Phillips from State Impact Pennsylvania and Abraham Lustgarten from Propublica. The WHYY segment included much discussion about fracking in Dimock, Pa. (Roy Seneca 814-5567)
